2017 IASD CONFERENCE WRAP UP Bob Hoss, Conference Advisory Committee Chair

What a wonderful conference we had this year in Anaheim California at the Wyndham. We had over 250 attendees from 14 countries and 130 presenters. We received wonderful reviews for our Keynotes this year, three of which were our IASD founders (Gayle Delaney, Jeremy Taylor and Patricia Garfield) plus Bill Domhoff and invited presenter Stan Krippner, both of whom have been with the organization from the early years. All are amazing luminaries in the field of dreams.

A highlight was the hike along the California beach and canyon trails, thanks to Athena Kolinski and Alan Siegel. For those who didn't attend the dinner buffets and movies, you will not want to miss them next year – Lauren Schneider created the most heartwarming and delightful montage of dream related movie clips interspersed with quotes from our IASD experts and luminaries past and present.

The art exhibit was once again a delight, thanks to Kim Vergil and Robert Gongloff. Then there was the dream ball of all dream balls, an extravaganza that no one should have missed! Walter Barry, who works in the movie industry, made it a true Hollywood experience, with swirling and strobing colored studio lights and two panels on the wall of dance theme movie clips, which seemed to synchronize with the fantastic band he brought in. Everyone was instantly on the dance floor and stayed there – we danced till we dropped.

IASD would like to thank all of the Core and 2017

President, Sherry Puricelli
Board Chair, Laurel Clark
Vice President, Clare Johnson
Secretary, Anna-Karin Bjorklund
Treasurer, Robert Waggoner

We appreciate everyone's willingness to offer their talents and time on behalf of the organization. Thank you again to all of you who took part in this process!

Conference Committee members and the many other volunteers who worked to make this conference a fun successful event – particularly the local Southern California team headed by Geoff Nelson, as well as Scott and Julie Sparrow who stepped in midway to manage the recording activity and volunteer management when we lost our original support.

And you do not want to miss the conference next year at the Paradise Valley Resort in Scottsdale Arizona – where we will meet in a beautiful resort style hotel with room rates of only $89 per night – and plan to visit the cool Arizona high country for a few days: Grand Canyon, Sedona, ancient Native American sites, Rt66, Ghost towns. ## PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS FROM SHERRY PURICELLI

I was asked to share a few words from my Presidential Address at the Anaheim Conference. In the interest of space I was asked to keep it brief, so I've decided to share the heart of it from my perspective, and what it meant to me.

My address was inspired by a dream.

In the dream, the woman, a young teacher that I haven't met before turns to me and says, "Let's try to dream the same dream so we can be in it together and we can keep each other close and keep each other safe." We're in a crowded space but I don't care. With my eyes spilling over with tears, I pull her close, wrap my arms around her, and hug her tightly. We stand there just holding each other for a period of time. Then we slowly let go and each walk our own way. In that moment in the dream I realize we're already doing it! I look around me and see the room filled with people. We come from all walks of life, we're so different from one another, we're from great distances from one another, but here we all are. We're dreaming this dream together.

The dream was analogous to IASD. I felt encouraged and gratified. IASD is our safe place and we keep each other close, even at great distances. We've come from diverse backgrounds and places, yet we are all in this dream community together.

I felt inspired. IASD is like a dream come true. It's the most reputable, most inclusive, most multi-disciplinary dream studies organization in the world. I'm proud of IASD and the people in it. IASD is my tribe!

We truly have a beautiful and unique opportunity within IASD. The dreamers before us made IASD what it is today and now it is in our hands. It's our turn to create the organization we want IASD to become, leading the way for future generations. I'm optimistic. The dream has a call to action. As stewards in the community we each have a role to play. I ask you to search your heart and your dreams to see what your role will be. This is our community, it's our dream, and we're dreaming it together!

It's an honor to serve all of you. I hope you will read my full presidential address in the Fall Edition of Dream Time Magazine and I hope we will stay connected.

With love and gratitude,
Sherry Puricelli, IASD President
